The Global Harmonization System
of Classification and Labeling

Hazard communications standards are changing! Are you prepared?

OSHA is requiring that all employers who have chemicals onsite train their employees on the new labeling elements and SDS format prior to June 1, 2014.

To help you prepare for these changes, Vigilant is offering a course aimed at giving your staff representative the tools needed to train other employees on these new requirements.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

It is your responsibility to ensure that every employee who works for you understands the potential hazards of working with chemicals in the workplace. This course will give your trainer the ability to:

- Integrate the new Global Harmonization Standard into your Hazard Communication Program
- Educate employees and co-workers about how potentially hazardous chemicals affect our everyday lives
- Discuss state and Federal requirements on Hazard Communication
- Incorporate 5S into your Hazard Communication Program
