

INTERNSHIP

VS

APPRENTICESHIP

Which Is Right for You?

Registered apprenticeships and internships both give you entry-level experience in a career; however, they work in different ways. Registered apprenticeships pay you to learn a skill in the work environment. Internships give you the chance to learn before you earn.

INTERNSHIP

APPRENTICESHIP

3-6 Months

1-5 Years

Can Be Paid or Unpaid

Paid with Wage Progression

Supports Classroom Instruction

Classroom Instruction & Structured On-the-Job Training

See It – Focuses on Career Exploration

Do It – Focuses on Skill & Career Attainment

60% of College Graduates Received Job Offers*

95% of Completers Employed After Apprenticeship*

No Certification

Portable Industry-Recognized Certificate

Learn Before You Earn

Earn While You Learn

* According to the Workforce Training & Education Coordinating Board's 2018 report, 93% of apprentice completers have employment following their apprenticeship. According to the National Association of Colleges & Employers (NACE) 2012 Internship & Co-op Survey, approximately 60% of college graduates in 2012 who completed a paid internship received at least one job offer. On the other hand, only 37% of unpaid interns received job offers while 36% of students with no internship experience received offers upon graduating from college.